One, to lower the lead time to the treatment of disease through early diagnosis. One of the primary ways to achieve this will be through establishing public health centre from the current 50% to national coverage. There is also a plan to build a comprehensive National Dementia Centre and install a replica in the four big regional hospitals.